1. General provisions

1. This document defines the terms of the Institutional Single-Copy Licence for the use of publications of the Report K* series and other publications made available by the Sir Roger Penrose Institute for Interdisciplinary Sciences.
2. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence is intended for an institution, organisation, public unit, university, foundation, association, analytical centre, research unit or other entity that purchases a publication within a limited single-copy scope.
3. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence authorises the use of the publication by one indicated person, one indicated position, one indicated organisational unit or within another limited scope expressly indicated in the offer, order or decision of the Institute.
4. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence does not constitute the right to make the publication available to the entire institution, all employees, all members of the organisation, the entire team, the entire department, the entire editorial office, all students or other groups of persons not indicated within the scope of the licence.
5. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence may apply in particular to:
 - a) a single regular volume of the Report K* series,
 - b) a single special volume of the Report K* series,
 - c) an analytical monograph published by the Institute,
 - d) a methodological report,
 - e) a digital publication in PDF format or another electronic format,
 - f) a printed publication,
 - g) an institutional single-copy access package,
 - h) a Report K* – Institutional subscription.
6. Purchasing a publication, obtaining access to a publication or having a publication covered by a subscription in the Institutional variant constitutes acceptance of these licence terms, unless the parties expressly agree otherwise in a separate agreement or individual offer of the Institute.
7. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence does not transfer to the Licensee any economic copyrights to the publication or any intellectual property rights to the methodology, analytical structure, models, concepts, forecasts, charts, tables, diagrams, studies or other elements of the publication protected by law.
8. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence is non-exclusive, non-transferable, non-sublicensable and limited to the scope expressly defined in this document.
9. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence does not replace a team, departmental, library, academic, corporate or strategic licence.

2. Definitions

For the purposes of this document, the following terms shall have the meanings set out below:

1. Institute – the Sir Roger Penrose Institute for Interdisciplinary Sciences.
2. Licensee – an institution, organisation, public unit, university, foundation, association, research unit, analytical centre, company or other entity that has purchased a publication or obtained access to a publication under the Institutional Single-Copy Licence.
3. Publication – any volume, report, monograph, analysis, methodological note, digital file, printed edition, additional material or other work made available by the Institute, in particular within the Report K* series.
4. Report K – a series of specialised analytical publications of the Institute devoted to systemic analysis of technology, civilisation, social, economic, political, scientific and strategic processes, and complex transformational phenomena.
5. Institutional Single-Copy Licence – a licence authorising the Licensee to use the publication within a limited single-copy scope, by one indicated person, one indicated position, one indicated organisational unit or within another limited scope defined by the Institute.
6. Authorised user – a natural person indicated by the Licensee or arising from the scope of the licence as the person authorised to use the publication under the Institutional Single-Copy Licence.
7. Authorised position – a single work position, function or organisational role within the Licensee to which the right to use the publication has been assigned.
8. Authorised unit – a limited organisational unit of the Licensee, indicated in the offer, order or decision of the Institute, authorised to use the publication within a scope not exceeding the Institutional Single-Copy Licence.
9. Institutional Subscription – an institutional single-copy access package to regular volumes of the Report K* series during the selected subscription period.
10. Regular volume – a recurring volume of the Report K* series, covering a specific area of systemic analysis and published in accordance with the Institute’s publishing rhythm.
11. Special volume – a publication of the Report K* series devoted to a particular problem, event, systemic threshold, strategic situation or topic requiring separate analysis.
12. Digital file – a publication made available in electronic form, in particular as a PDF file.
13. Printed edition – a physical copy of a publication made available in printed form.
14. Redistribution – any transfer, sending, sharing, publication, copying, placement, sale, resale, exchange or dissemination of a publication or a substantial part thereof to a third party, team, institution, organisation or unauthorised recipient.
15. Multi-person access – any manner of using the publication by more than one natural person, unless that manner of use clearly falls within the scope indicated by the Institute for the Institutional Single-Copy Licence.

16. Third party – any person who is not the Authorised user or does not fall within the scope of use defined by the Institutional Single-Copy Licence.

3. Scope of the Institutional Single-Copy Licence

1. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence authorises the Licensee to use the publication within a limited institutional scope, in accordance with this document and the offer description.
2. Under the Institutional Single-Copy Licence, the publication may be used:
 - a) by one indicated natural person,
 - b) by one indicated organisational position,
 - c) by one indicated organisational unit within a limited scope,
 - d) in another single-copy manner expressly accepted by the Institute.
3. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence authorises the use of the publication as a source of knowledge, analysis, context, research inspiration, internal material or material supporting the work of one indicated person, position or limited organisational unit.
4. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence does not include the right to:
 - a) distribute the publication to the Licensee's employees,
 - b) place the publication in an intranet,
 - c) place the publication on a shared drive,
 - d) place the publication in a document management system,
 - e) place the publication in a knowledge management system,
 - f) place the publication in a repository,
 - g) make the publication available to the entire institution,
 - h) make the publication available to all team members,
 - i) use the publication as a library resource,
 - j) use the publication as teaching material made available to students,
 - k) use the publication as a corporate, departmental or strategic resource,
 - l) use the publication by an unlimited or unspecified number of persons.
5. If the publication is to be used by a larger number of persons, it is necessary to obtain an appropriate Team / Departmental, Library, Academic, Corporate or Strategic Licence.

4. Authorised user and institutional scope

1. The Licensee should specify who is authorised to use the publication under the Institutional Single-Copy Licence if this is required by the offer description, order, invoice, licence document or decision of the Institute.
2. If the Licensee does not indicate an authorised person, position or unit, it is presumed that the publication may be used only by the person responsible for contact with the Institute or the person indicated at the time of purchase, unless the Institute decides otherwise.
3. The Licensee may change the Authorised user only if:
 - a) this results from a natural organisational change,
 - b) the previous Authorised user has ceased to perform the given function,
 - c) the publication will not be used simultaneously by the previous and the new Authorised user,
 - d) the change does not lead to a de facto extension of the licence to multiple persons.
4. In case of doubt concerning a change of the Authorised user, the Licensee should contact the Institute.
5. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence does not automatically extend to all units, branches, subsidiaries, departments, faculties, editorial offices, teams, projects or other structures of the Licensee.
6. If the Licensee operates within a multi-branch, multi-faculty, holding, federated or network structure, the Institutional Single-Copy Licence covers only the entity or unit indicated at the time of purchase, unless the offer description provides otherwise.

5. Permitted use

1. Under the Institutional Single-Copy Licence, use of the publication is permitted within a limited institutional scope, in accordance with the purpose of purchasing the publication and the scope of the licence.
2. Permitted use includes in particular:
 - a) reading the publication by the Authorised user,
 - b) analysing the content of the publication,
 - c) making internal notes for the Licensee's own use,
 - d) using the publication as a source of knowledge in the work of one indicated person, position or unit,
 - e) quoting short excerpts from the publication with source attribution,
 - f) referring to the theses, concepts, models or conclusions of the publication with clear source attribution,

- g) storing the publication on a secured device or digital resource to which only the Authorised user or the person technically responsible for access management has access,
 - h) keeping one backup copy of the digital file, provided that this copy is not made available to unauthorised persons.
3. The Licensee may use conclusions from the publication in internal work, provided that this does not lead to the dissemination of substantial parts of the publication beyond the scope of the licence.
 4. The Licensee may refer to the publication as a source in documents, analyses, notes, studies or its own materials, provided that the scope of quotation and discussion does not substitute the source publication.
 5. The Licensee may not create internal studies, summaries, presentations or knowledge bases that, to a substantial extent, substitute the purchase of the publication by other persons or organisational units.

6. Quotation and use of excerpts

1. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence does not limit the right to quote the publication within the scope permitted by applicable law.
2. Quotation of excerpts from the publication should be carried out with respect for copyright, academic integrity and the integrity of the author's statement.
3. When quoting the publication, at least the following should be indicated:
 - a) the author's full name,
 - b) the title of the publication,
 - c) the name of the Report K* series, if the publication belongs to that series,
 - d) the name of the Institute,
 - e) the year of publication,
 - f) the page number or other information allowing the quoted excerpt to be identified, if available.
4. It is permitted to quote short excerpts from the publication for the purposes of analysis, criticism, polemic, explanation, teaching, review, expert commentary or one's own argumentation, provided that the quotation is justified by the purpose of use.
5. It is not permitted to quote, summarise or discuss the publication to an extent that substitutes the need to consult the source publication.
6. It is not permitted to publish substantial parts of the report, in particular full chapters, full tables, full matrices, full models, full forecasts, full diagrams, full recommendations or complete analytical structures, without prior consent of the Institute.

7. The Licensee may not present the methodology, models, thresholds, concepts, classifications, analytical structures or conclusions developed by the Institute as its own.
8. If the Licensee wishes to use a more extensive excerpt of the publication, a full table, chart, diagram, model, matrix, report structure or another substantial part of the publication, the Licensee should obtain prior consent of the Institute.

7. Prohibitions and restrictions

1. Under the Institutional Single-Copy Licence, the following in particular is prohibited:
 - a) sending a PDF file to unauthorised persons,
 - b) sending a PDF file to all employees or members of the Licensee,
 - c) making the publication available in whole or in substantial part to third parties,
 - d) copying the publication for further dissemination,
 - e) placing the publication in open repositories,
 - f) placing the publication in closed repositories accessible to persons other than the Authorised user,
 - g) placing the publication in an intranet,
 - h) placing the publication on shared drives,
 - i) placing the publication in knowledge management systems, educational platforms, document systems, knowledge bases or team resources,
 - j) making the publication available via cloud storage if unauthorised persons may gain access to the file,
 - k) printing the digital file in multiple copies for the purpose of providing them to third parties,
 - l) reselling the digital publication,
 - m) transferring the digital file for payment or free of charge,
 - n) creating copies of the publication for other persons or organisational units,
 - o) removing markings from the digital copy,
 - p) circumventing technical safeguards,
 - q) using the publication to train artificial intelligence models, automated content-processing systems or commercial databases without separate consent of the Institute,
 - r) creating summaries, studies, presentations or materials that substantially substitute the purchase of the publication,
 - s) using the publication in a manner that infringes the good name of the Institute, the author or the integrity of the publication.

2. It is prohibited to make the publication available to employees, associates, students, clients, team members, editorial office members, organisation members or other persons if those persons are not covered by the appropriate licence.
3. It is prohibited to use the Institutional Single-Copy Licence to circumvent the requirement to obtain a team, departmental, library, academic, corporate or strategic licence.
4. It is prohibited to purchase a publication under the Institutional Single-Copy Licence for the purpose of actual use of the publication by a team, department, editorial office, university, library, law firm, company, organisation or another multi-person structure.
5. In case of doubt as to whether a planned manner of use falls within the scope of the Institutional Single-Copy Licence, the Licensee should contact the Institute before commencing such use.

8. Digital files and copy markings

1. Digital publications may be individually marked, including with the Licensee's data, the Authorised user's data, order number, licence type, purchase date, access scope or other markings enabling the copy to be identified.
2. Digital copy markings may be visible or technical in nature.
3. Markings may serve in particular:
 - a) copyright protection,
 - b) prevention of unauthorised distribution,
 - c) identification of the source of a licence breach,
 - d) verification of the scope of the licence granted,
 - e) protection of the Institute's legal interests.
4. Removing, modifying, obscuring, circumventing or hindering the reading of digital copy markings is prohibited.
5. The Licensee may not remove metadata, watermarks, licence markings, copy numbers or other safeguards of the publication.
6. In the future, the Institute may make digital publications available through its own digital reading room, access system, user account or another technical solution.
7. A change in the technical method of making the publication available does not extend the scope of the Institutional Single-Copy Licence.

9. Printed editions

1. A printed edition covered by the Institutional Single-Copy Licence is intended for use within a limited single-copy scope.

2. Purchasing a printed edition does not grant the right to scan the publication, digitise the publication, create electronic copies or disseminate the content of the publication.
3. The Licensee may use the printed edition in a manner consistent with the scope of the licence, in particular read it, mark excerpts, make notes and store the copy for the needs of the indicated person, position or limited organisational unit.
4. A printed edition purchased under the Institutional Single-Copy Licence is not a library, academic, team, departmental or corporate copy, unless the Institute expressly decides otherwise.
5. Placing the printed copy in a library, reading room, institutional archive, team resource or another place of shared use may require an appropriate library, academic, team or extended institutional licence.
6. The Licensee may resell the physical printed copy if permitted by applicable law; however, resale of the printed copy does not include the transfer of digital files, digital access, a user account or additional materials made available electronically.

10. Institutional Subscription

1. The Report K* – Institutional Subscription is a form of the Institutional Single-Copy Licence covering access to regular volumes of the Report K* series during the selected subscription period.
2. The Institutional Subscription is intended for one Licensee and includes a limited single-copy scope of use, in accordance with this document.
3. The Institutional Subscription may be offered in particular in the following variants:
 - a) tertial subscription – 4 months / 2 regular volumes,
 - b) half-year subscription – 6 months / 3 regular volumes,
 - c) annual subscription – 12 months / 6 regular volumes.
4. The Institutional Subscription includes only the publications indicated in the description of a given subscription package.
5. The Institutional Subscription does not automatically include special volumes, extended monographs, dedicated reports, analyses prepared on request or other publications not indicated in the package description, unless the description of a specific offer provides otherwise.
6. The subscriber may obtain the possibility to purchase special volumes or other publications on preferential terms if this is provided for in the current price list, the offer description or an individual decision of the Institute.
7. The Institutional Subscription does not include the right to make publications available to all employees, the entire team, all members of the organisation, the entire editorial office, the entire faculty, the entire department or the entire institution.

8. A change in the price of individual volumes published after the commencement of the subscription does not affect the scope of publications covered by a subscription already paid for, unless the offer description provides otherwise.
9. The Institute may change the prices, terms, scope or variants of future subscriptions.

11. Special volumes

1. Special volumes of the Report K* series may be sold separately or made available under selected subscription packages, if the description of a given package so provides.
2. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence for a special volume covers use within a limited single-copy scope.
3. Purchasing a special volume under the Institutional Single-Copy Licence does not grant the right to make the special volume available to all employees, teams, departments, units, editorial offices, libraries, students or other persons not covered by the licence.
4. If the Licensee purchases a special volume on preferential terms as a subscriber, the scope of the licence remains the same as under the Institutional Single-Copy Licence, unless the Institute expressly decides otherwise.
5. Special volumes may have a separate price, separate availability scope, separate sales terms or separate licence restrictions if this follows from the nature of the publication.

12. Relationship to other licences

1. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence is a limited licence and does not include multi-person access.
2. If the publication is to be used by a team, department, editorial office, law firm, strategy department, research team, project group or several persons within one institution, the Team / Departmental Licence may be appropriate.
3. If the publication is to be made available in a library, reading room, library catalogue or library resource, the Library Licence may be appropriate.
4. If the publication is to be used in teaching, classes, seminars, academic courses or educational systems, the Academic / Teaching Licence may be appropriate.
5. If the publication is to be used in a large organisation, company, fund, public administration, international organisation or strategic activity, the Corporate / Strategic Licence may be appropriate.
6. If the Licensee is unsure which licence is appropriate for the planned manner of use, the Licensee should contact the Institute before purchasing or before commencing use beyond the scope of the Institutional Single-Copy Licence.

13. Breach of licence

1. A breach of the Institutional Single-Copy Licence is any use of the publication beyond the scope defined in this document.
2. A breach of the licence includes in particular:
 - a) making the publication available to an unauthorised person,
 - b) sending a PDF file to an unauthorised person,
 - c) distributing the publication to employees or members of the Licensee,
 - d) placing the publication in a repository, intranet, team resource or system accessible to unauthorised persons,
 - e) making the publication available on the Internet,
 - f) removing markings from the digital copy,
 - g) circumventing technical safeguards,
 - h) using the publication in a manner appropriate for an extended licence without obtaining such a licence,
 - i) disseminating substantial parts of the publication,
 - j) presenting the methodology, models, structures or conclusions of the Institute as one's own,
 - k) using the publication to train artificial intelligence models or create databases without the consent of the Institute,
 - l) creating material that substitutes the publication,
 - m) using the Institutional Single-Copy Licence as apparent single-copy access while the publication is in fact used by multiple persons.
3. In the event of a breach of the Institutional Single-Copy Licence, the Institute may in particular:
 - a) revoke access to digital publications,
 - b) block access to the user account or digital reading room, if such a technical solution is used,
 - c) refuse to sell further publications,
 - d) refuse participation in support programmes,
 - e) refuse to grant further licences,
 - f) demand the purchase of the appropriate extended licence,
 - g) pursue copyright protection,
 - h) seek damages or other claims provided for by law.

4. Revocation of access due to a breach of the licence does not create an obligation to refund the price of the publication, the subscription price or any other fees paid by the Licensee.
5. The Institute may call upon the Licensee to cease the breach, provide explanations, indicate the source of the breach, confirm the removal of unauthorised copies of the publication or regularise the scope of the licence.
6. Failure by the Licensee to respond to the Institute's notice may be regarded as a circumstance aggravating the breach of the licence.

14. Liability of the Licensee

1. The Licensee is responsible for the manner of using the publication covered by the Institutional Single-Copy Licence.
2. The Licensee should secure the digital file against access by unauthorised persons.
3. The Licensee is responsible for making the publication available to third parties if this occurred as a result of an act, omission, negligence or improper safeguarding of the file by the Licensee, its employees, associates, representatives or persons acting on its behalf.
4. The Licensee is responsible for the actions of the Authorised user in the scope of using the publication.
5. The Licensee should promptly inform the Institute of the loss of a file, unauthorised access, suspected licence breach or disclosure of the publication to third parties.
6. The Licensee is not liable for breaches resulting solely from causes attributable to the Institute or from actions of third parties over whom the Licensee had no control, provided that the Licensee exercised due care in safeguarding the publication.

15. Amendment of licence terms

1. The Institute may amend these licence terms, in particular in the event of changes in law, changes in the method of distribution of publications, launch of a digital reading room, changes in technical safeguards, changes in the licence structure or the need to clarify the rules for using publications.
2. The amended licence terms apply to publications purchased after the date of entry into force of the new terms, unless applicable law or the offer description provides otherwise.
3. In the case of subscriptions active on the date of amendment of the terms, the new terms may apply to volumes made available after the date of amendment, provided that this does not infringe the Licensee's acquired rights to publications already made available.
4. The current version of the licence terms is published on the Institute's website or made available together with the publication.

16. Final provisions

1. In matters not regulated by this document, applicable law and the relevant regulations of the Institute shall apply.
2. If any provision of these terms proves invalid, ineffective or impossible to perform, this shall not affect the validity of the remaining provisions.
3. In the event of any discrepancy between this document and an individual agreement concluded with the Licensee, the provisions of the individual agreement shall prevail.
4. In the event of any discrepancy between this document and the description of a specific offer, the offer description shall prevail to the extent that it grants the Licensee broader rights or defines special access conditions.
5. The Institutional Single-Copy Licence applies from the moment of purchasing the publication, obtaining access to the publication or commencing a subscription in the Institutional variant, unless the offer description provides otherwise.
6. These licence terms enter into force on the date of their publication on the Institute's website.
